INDIA VERSUS IRELAND.

The proclamation of King George extending a greater autonomy to the people of India will not allay the unrest in Ireland. The cases are almost analogous, the extent of the yellow men demanding a more independent government and a smaller share of paternalism. India has without any rebellion for over half a century. The people resented military control and insisted that they were entitled to recognition of ability to manage their own affairs as a separate dominion of the British empire. The ranking injustice of the British administration forced on the East India people who were compelled to foot the bills and also contribute enormous sums annually to the crown has been the subject of repeated expostulation until the people grew exhausted and the native elements became harder to control. Self government for these people is a tacit admission of the right of the Irish to self determination and the cause of the latter will be materially strengthened by the knowledge that India through unceasing agitation wrested from the British crown a reluctant concession of their right to self government. England has ruled India with an iron hand and by flattery the maharajahs and tribal leaders through political recognition and indirect subsidies the mother country succeeded in holding the masses under control. The British grasp on India was so weak that at the beginning of the war with Germany it was a mooted question if Britain would succeed in holding the allegiance of her Indian subjects. Germany also recognized the potentiality of operating in India where a propaganda was conducted on a scale that more than once almost reached the breaking point. In contrast with this forced admission of the rights of India is the treatment of Ireland whose claims were not even touched upon by King George in proroguing parliament which was expected to dispose of the Irish question with some degree of finality. Self government for India as the result of constant agitation will only tend to convince the Irish leaders that eventually they will gain their end by relentless resistance to the sovereign power, not by the assassin's hand, but in regular parliamentary form.

JAPANNING THE PACIFIC COAST.

Recent returns from the counties of California indicate there is real danger in the increase of Japanese in that state where the opposition to picture brides attained such proportions recently that the Japanese government, foreseeing the danger of further irritation, assumed responsibility for stopping the infamous traffic. The spineless administration at Washington ignored the demands of the coast for an early determination of this issue but all appeals met with prompt burial in waste baskets without securing any action. The Japanese government, however, was more influenced by the attitude of the American people and, rather than chance more hostile demonstrations, which might result in the passing of an exclusion act, took the bull by the horns and prohibited further exportation of brides in name who were chiefly designed for propagating the race in America and giving the Japanese more extended land holding in California. The data on the increase of Nipponese population in that state during the past ten years shows that in some counties the increase has been as high as 100 per cent. In Butte county the report shows that fifty-one Japanese women gave birth to ninety-seven children in three years. Under the gentlemen's agreement with Japan these children are eligible to own land and the names of infants in arms are freely used by their parents and dominating commercial companies in deeds to valuable lands. In thirty-two counties, omitting some of the largest Japanese colonies, the report shows that there are 40,083 Japanese. These figures on the population are estimates and believed to be very nearly correct. Most astounding of all is the fact that in these counties Japanese individuals or corporations controlled by Japanese own 11,827 acres of land and, in addition, a 2,346-acre tract in Stanislaus county is reported to have been purchased by Japanese. The report is not complete as many of the larger counties and cities have not been heard from. Included among the counties which have not yet reported are Sacramento, Placer, Los Angeles and San Joaquin, where the yellow race is most active and have large holdings. The restriction of the Japanese is not fully understood by the people outside the Pacific coast states but the danger is attaining such magnitude that it is likely to be made one of the leading issues of the next campaign through a demand for a more rigorous foreign policy in dealing with Hindoes and Japanese who threaten in a few years to outnumber the white population.

BACK TO WAR PRICES.

Attorney General Palmer does not seem to be getting anywhere in particular with his campaign to reduce the high cost of living. Latest comparative estimates place the cost of living at a point 20 per cent higher than when the armistice was signed and 10 per cent higher than when the government campaign against high prices began. War prices were at one time considered top prices, but there would be marked decrease in the high cost of living if we could only get back to war prices again. Perhaps the politicians are as much to blame as the war for the aviation stunts of what might fittingly be termed "essential luxuries." Government regulation only regulates in favor of the dealer and against the consumer. The first illustration of this policy was when the attorney general ordered all eggs in storage sold in the open market, thus depriving the dealer of his perfectly legitimate winter supply. This resulted in advancing the price of coal by taxing the consumer 30 to 50 cents a ton more than what he was paying during the coal strike. Print paper was increased from 3 1/2 to 13 cents a pound and growers of long staple cotton are figuring on a dollar a pound. The latter is regarded as a protected southern industry which must flourish at the expense of the nation that the solid south may garner more millions from the poor consumer.

AUSTRALIA IS KEEPING RIFLE READY TO USE

(Correspondence Associated Press)

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 25.—Sir Joseph Cook, minister for the navy, is urging military preparedness upon Australians. At the annual meeting of the Navy league, he said: "Spend your last dollar on preparing for a fight to the last. We have signed the peace, but Europe is still full of mutual hatreds, even among the allies. Until there is a general movement for disarmament, as I hope there will be soon, we must trust to the league of nations—and keep our powder dry. "We cannot afford to let the rifle rust yet awhile, though we have a league of nations which we hope will fructify," he told the National Rifle association. "Our rifles must be kept well oiled, and you must be able to shoot them as in times gone by if this country is to be safe. We may yet need our rifles here in Australia."

GERMAN PRISONERS SOLD IRON CROSSES

(Correspondence of Associated Press)

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—Many returned German prisoners are applying to the military department for new Iron Crosses, saying the originals were taken from them by the enemy. Not a single prisoner so far as is known, has admitted that he often and gladly sold his Iron Cross to the American soldiers or took a bag of tobacco for it with enthusiasm. The German government demands proof that the crosses were actually taken.

BERMUDA RAISES BAN ON AUTOS

(Correspondence Associated Press)

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Dec. 12.—A vigorous effort to raise the ban on motor cars has failed. The house of assembly voted 17 to 15 against it. For at least another year Bermudians and visiting tourists will continue to walk, ride a bicycle or drive a horse as of yore. Since little Nantucket capitulated to the forces of progress this colony has held an almost unique position in its opposition to the use of automobiles.

NOW IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO GET IN WITH SUCCESSFUL BANKERS, BUSINESS MEN AND OIL OPERATORS IN THIS COMPANY. IT MAY MEAN A FORTUNE TO YOU.

People have become rich overnight in the great Texas and Oklahoma oil fields. You surely have read the articles about these fields in the recent issues of the Saturday Evening Post. This publication said that oil was no respecter of persons, both the poor and the rich have made big money from the liquid gold. $100 of your money might be worth a lifetime of labor. People all over the country are investing in oil and refinery companies. The opportunities today are greater than ever in the past. In no other industry have such fabulous sums been made from small investments. In no other industry are fabulous sums of this kind to be made by the small investor. When offered a good proposition which is sound, go in—go in now. Take the advice of Carnegie, "When you stand near a good thing, branch into it." Fear is old woman's; it has kept untold millions from making fortunes. Buy all you can in oil. It's a fast game. Those who yet in early have the best opportunity in making big money. We are offering you a nine-to-one chance at a fortune. We have fifteen hundred acres of oil land in Texas in nine different counties. Our capitalization is only $100,000, par value $100 per share. ORDER TODAY. Yesterday is history, tomorrow is unknown, today is the time.
